

CONFESSION: I am the prophet of my own life. Today I make a quality decision to only speak words of life, words of health, words of wealth, words of wisdom, words of peace, and words of love. I plead the blood of Jesus over every negative word I've spoken. I pluck up every negative seed I've sown. I curse every corrupt tree that's grown up in my life. I am what the Word says I am. I do what the Word says I can do. I'm a miracle-worker. Signs do follow me. The gifts of the Spirit are active in my life. I have what the Word says I can have. I am created in the image of God. I am healed and whole. I am free from every weight and bondage. I am patient, kind and full of love. The joy of the Lord is my strength. My life at home is filled with joy and peace. My home is like heaven on earth. Every need I have is met. Every bill I have is paid. Every debt I have is cancelled. I walk in abundance. I live in abundance. I never run out! I'm a paymaster of the gospel. So God supplies all my needs according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus. I have so much I have to give it away. Favor surrounds me as a shield; promotions chase me down. I have witty ideas and inventions. The works of my hands are blessed. I am always in the right place at the right time because I obey God's voice. I am blessed, my family is blessed, my church is blessed, my nation is blessed, and we are blessed, in Jesus' name.
